DES's SNFLC's Legal Research Cell in collaboration with Library Department had organised a program on "Understanding Ethics and Standards in Academic Research Publications" for students and teachers. Resource person for this program was Dr. Shubhada Nagarkar – Coordinator, Centre for Publication Ethics, SPPU.

The purpose of this program was to enhance quality of the research publications of our students and teachers.

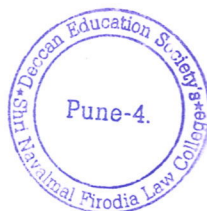

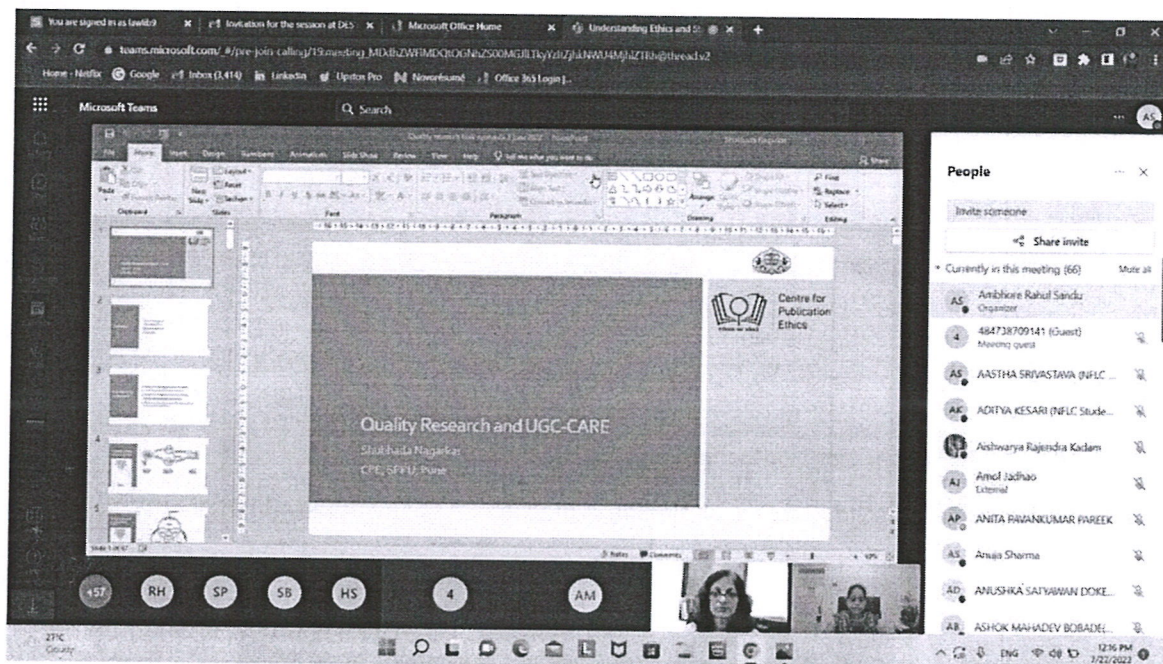

Our resource person explained about five elements of research, functions of a journal, academic journal and standard publishing practices, how to avoid research misconduct, falsification and fabrication of data among other things.

This session will help teachers to publish quality research work in reputed journals such as UGC CARE.

Functions of Journal

Function	Needs of author and reader
1. Registration of the author's claim to the work	Authors want recognition that they get through journals
2. Certification, usually by peer review, that the research was conducted properly	Readers need to trust what they are reading and authors want their claims accepted
3. Dissemination	Authors want to reach the right audience and readers want access
4. Archiving	both the author and reader want a permanent public record of the work that can be found and cited

Why publications in predatory journals?

- Fear of job loss and the "publish-or-perish" pressure
- Failure to publish in journals indexed in world recognized databases
- Rejection by standard/respectable journals due to inadequate research skills
- Competition among colleagues; desire to score higher and gain respect
- Lack of awareness among researchers and new faculty members

Definition

- Predatory open-access publishing is an exploitative open-access academic publishing business model that involves charging publication fees to authors without providing the editorial and publishing services associated with legitimate journals (open access or not).
- Jeffrey Beall is an American librarian. He was a librarian at Aurora Library in Denver until March 2018 who coined the term "predatory open access publishing"

Slide 1: Basic information

- Title
 - Hijacked Titles and websites of the standard journals
 - Use of misleading words such as "International" "Global" "World journal" "Asian" "American" in titles, while the journals lack the international scope and editorial board
 - Fraudulent or improper use of ISSNs and logos of standard publishers
- Subject: Multidisciplinary
- Contact details
 - No contact details of publisher and editor
 - False locations of the offices of the publisher and editor/s
- Editorial board
 - Lack of information on the editorial board members
 - Many editors are unaware of the inclusion of their names on editorial boards

Slide 2: Lack of Peer Review

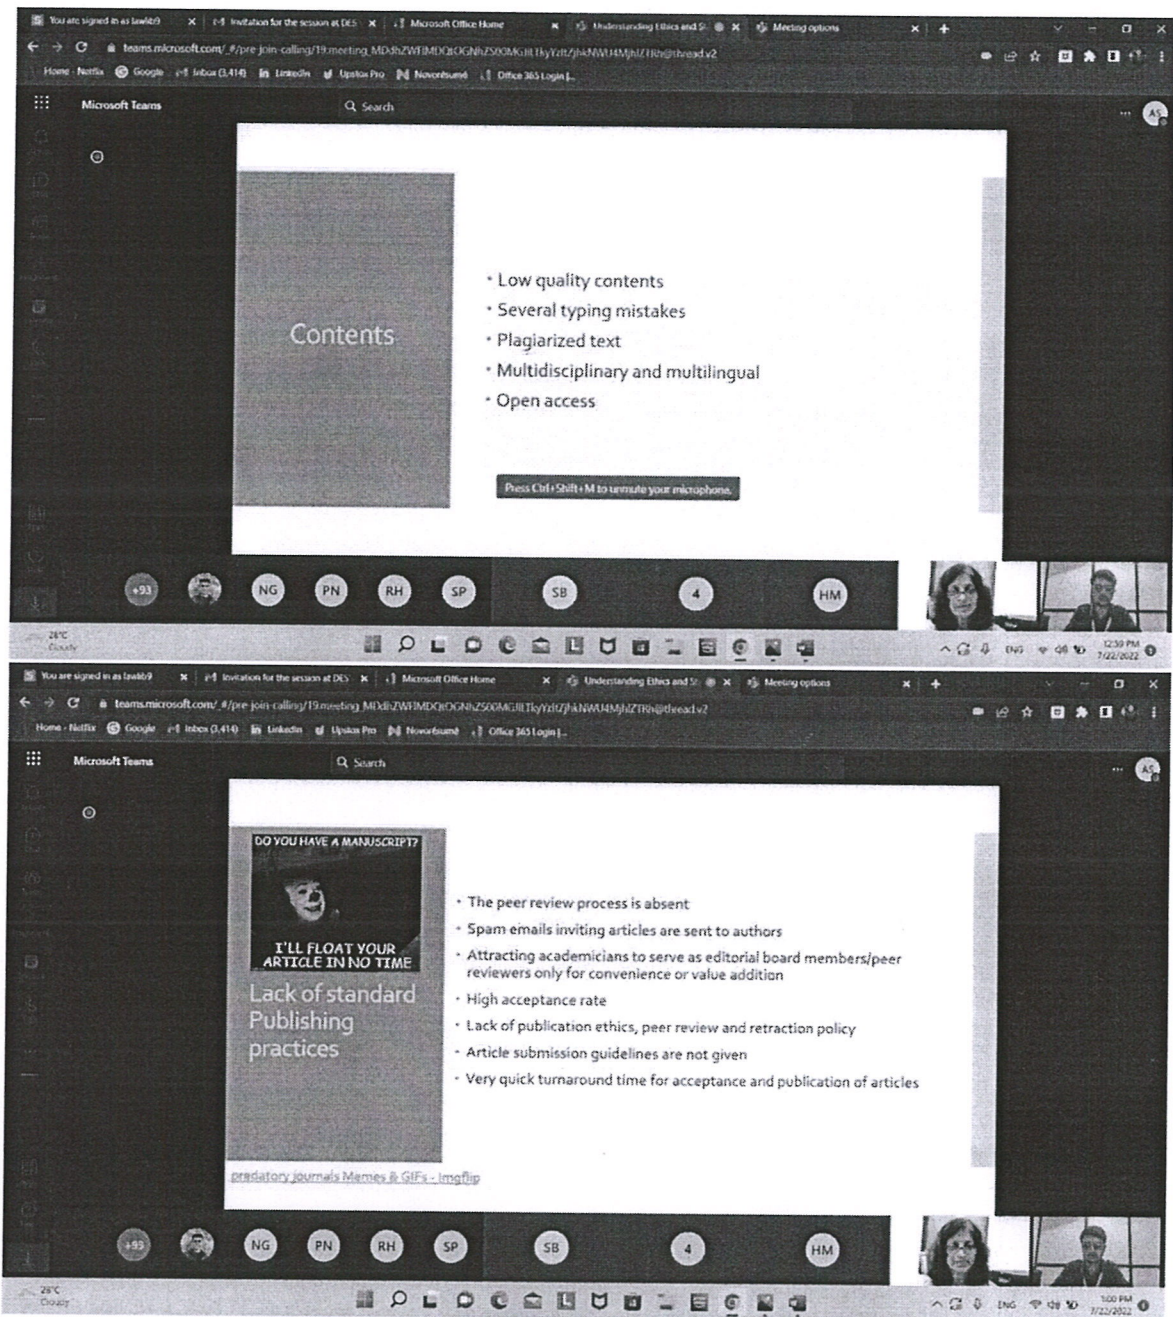

Most scientists regarded the new streamlined peer-review process as "quite an improvement."

Benefits of Indexing databases and indexed journal

- To identify authentic and appropriate literature as well as relevant authors in their field
- To receive recognition
- To get the primary information which may not have been included in books, encyclopedias
- To undertake scientometric studies based on citations with the help of citation databases to measure the research contributions by individual researchers, institutions, and countries.
- Ranking of universities
- Provide services to library users
- Easy to search as available online
- Most databases provide a list of journals that are indexed.

Word of caution False Indexing databases

- Journal indexing on payment basis
- Indexes journals which are already indexed in credible indexing database
- False citation count and Fabricated impact factor
- Several grammatical mistakes
- Inclusion of predatory journals
- Unknown journal position criteria and dubious values to journal
- Predatory Abstracting and Indexing databases
- Do not use any criteria for inclusion of journals
- "Pay and Index"

Plankh

Examples of dubious indexing databases

- Open Academic Journals Index – OAJI (<http://oaji.net/contact-us.html>)
- Scientific indexing services (<https://www.sindex.org/>)
- ROOT Indexing (<https://rootindexing.com/journal-master-list/>)
- Academic Resource Index (<http://journalseeker.researchbib.com/>)
- I2OR (<http://www.i2or.com/8.html>)
- Eurasian Scientific Journal (<http://esjindex.org/>)
- International Scientific Indexing (<https://isindexing.com/isii/>)
- Indian Citation Index (<http://www.indiancitationindex.com/ici.aspx>)

Types

- Shoddy / Sham journals : They follow the "Pay and Publish" model. These are easily recognizable as they contain text with grammatical errors and nonsense.
- Hijacked journals: They are difficult to recognize as they mimic the reputable publications in name, logos and website.
- Cloned journals: They are online dubious versions of print only authentic journals. Here names, ISSN and websites (if any) are the same. They hook the prospective researchers to publish their research online (with payment).
- Crony publishing : Institutional publications in which editorial board members and a majority of the authors are from the same institutes, across a majority of the issues of the periodical. Editorial misconduct by editors and their associate reviewers (groups of friends from either the same or different institutions are on board of reviewers).

Consequences

- Corruption in science and other disciplines
- Influence on Key Sectors such as Human Health
 - if the research results are published without scrutiny, doctors and other individuals may use false information leading to improper treatments and further research.
 - In addition, journalists or media may mislead people when they publish information, without ascertaining journal credentials (predatory or legitimate).
- Damage to the career of researchers
- Damage to the institution's reputation
- Loss of money
- Waste of time and efforts

The process of knowledge production adheres to the same laws that govern the physical transformation of energy. Written knowledge contains a kind of "thought-energy" that is never lost but rather transformed. "Books conserve mental energy," he wrote, and "their contents shift into other books when they are destroyed; and all literary creation, no matter how original and powerful, involves the redistribution, combination, and new amalgamations of existing facts."

It's an early start for law students at DES

With exams being ruled out in the midst of the pandemic, the next academic year could begin unhindered by evaluating the last semester's performance

PUNE Mirror

Chance, 2023-24 is going to be an exceptional academic year, thanks to the pandemic. For students at Deccan Education Society's (DES) law college, what has made it particularly special is that the year has slowly kicked off, with online classes going live on Thursday. As compared to the regular schedule, this is almost two months early.

For first-year students, all of us have begun classes. With University Grants Commission (UGC) proclaiming that all scholars must be promoted to the next year on the basis of internal marks and performance in the previous semester, a big hurdle in initiating the next academic year was removed.

"Every year, lectures would begin only from July 15, due to late announcement of results by the university and the ensuing evaluation process. This time, with the results being announced on earlier performance, this process was dispensed with and the lectures could begin. Given the unique situation, we thought it judicious to engage the students mentally by instilling some positivity," explained Justice Apte, chairman, managing committee, DES Navalma Firodia Law College.

Regular lectures began on Thursday, with classes between 6 am and 11 am. The college is adopting an hour-by-hour lecture and is going to record them on the interface for the lectures. They added that the pandemic would

Online classes began for the students of DES SNFLC on Thursday, barring first-year scholars. Usually, their first lectures begin around July 15 in a year

The commencement of these online lectures is reassuring. There may be disruptions due to connectivity issues but the fact that we made an early start should help us complete the syllabus

—Kedar Lakhe, second-year LLB student

Lakhe, a second-year LLB student, pointed out, "The extended lockdown had us worried about how we would get through the next academic year. The commencement of these online lectures is reassuring. There may be disruptions due to connectivity issues but the fact that we made an early start should help us complete the syllabus."

Similarly, Ashi Thepatre, a third-year LLB student, appreciated, "We come to my village near Lonavala, being able to access lectures from my remote location is a boon. Yet, connectivity is a worry and allowances have to be made for such interruptions when the student online lectures."

playing the Google Team drive to upload daily notes and PowerPoint presentations, which students can access, enabling them to download.

Winning the race, Kedar

कधी सुधारेल, हे माहिती नाही.

त्यामुळे संस्थेने लॉकडाऊन काळात

त्यामुळे विद्यार्थ्यांना अडचणी येणार
नाहीत, असे प्राचार्या होनप यांनी
सांगितले. कुलकर्णी यांनी लॉकडाऊन
काळात विद्यार्थ्यांनी अभ्यासाशिवाय
